

Cash Ban Scotland

The government is introducing a cash ban across the metal recycling industry in Scotland from 1st September 2016.

The Scottish Government will introduce a cash ban under the Air Weapons Licensing (Scotland) Act 2015. As a result we will no longer be allowed to pay cash for scrap and will only pay for scrap metal by cheque, or by an electronic transfer of funds.

Please note; The Scottish cash ban will apply to everyone who buys scrap metal as a business, unless they are registered as an itinerant.

Payment methods*

- Next day transfer into bank account.
- Faster pay transfer into a bank account.
- Cheque payment. Additionally as agents of Cheque Exchange Limited, we can provide a cheque cashing service while you are on site.

* There are charges for cashing cheques.

Open a customer account today

To take advantage of these payment options, customers must hold a JR Adam account. Customer accounts can be created at any JR Adam depot by giving some basic details to the payment office or online by completing this form.

When your account is set up you will be issued with a JR Adam Loyalty Card which will be scanned every time you visit one of our sites to give us quick access to your customer information.

To set up your account we will need to check and take copies of your ID.

Please bring the following with you on your first visit:

- Photo ID (driving licence or passport).
- Proof of address, no more than three months old (such as utility bill or council tax bill)

If you have any further questions on the impact of the Scottish cash ban please contact your local depot here.